This holiday season, break away from the pack and give someone or yourself that special, meaningful or authentic gift that can't be found online or at standard big-box stores. On this new and unique L.A. shopping adventure with professional step-on guide, Curt, we've hand-picked several unique stores, boutiques, and gift shops – all featuring distinctive products, astounding variety and reasonable prices. Enjoy browsing a delightful variety of items from local and international artisans at a craft & folk-art gift shop. You'll be amazed at the beautiful handmade art objects from all over the globe. Visit a curiosity and book store that is a treasure trove of quirky Americana and an emporium of kitsch art. This is the spot for shoppers who appreciate an expansive collection of everything colorful and cool – like Hindu dashboard deities, sparkly unicorn floor mats, jalapeno string lights, Tibetan statues, and more. There is a great selection of L.A.-centric books and calendars, plus scented soaps and oils from around the world. Just the extensive book collection on kitschy art is a site to be seen.

Visit one of the largest architectural antique dealers in the country sourced largely from pre-depression and late 19th century buildings. At this warehouse with a retail atmosphere, they salvage original precious items to make them available to collectors and designers who can put them to good use. It's popular with set designers and architectural tradesmen, builders, and antique dealers. It's also a great spot to browse the interesting wares and enjoy the highlights of this reclaimed section of the city. A highlight of our adventure will be time to shop at three museum gift shops. These wonderful stores carry posters, jewelry and housewares – you may find everything from a Jasper Johns beach towel, Andy Warhol salt and pepper shakers or coffee table books on famous architects. High-end items include rare and signed books, limited-edition sunglasses, jewelry, an extensive collection of art and design items, hard-to-find books, exhibition catalogs, independent magazines, art prints and more. We'll make a stop along the way for time at leisure with lunch on your own at a location that offers various eateries. Suggested: walking shoes. All visits subject to change.
