Take a journey with us down memory lane along the “Mother Road,” Route 66, to explore some of the California icons that were made famous along this Route. As we travel along Route 66, see landmarks, historical buildings and ‘mom and pop’ shops that contributed in making Route 66 the “Main Street of America.” In historic Old Town Victorville, enjoy a docent-guided tour of the California Route 66 Museum, which is devoted to the westernmost portion of the historic highway and complete with signs and memorabilia from different periods of the road’s history. This fun and interactive museum is full of nostalgia, complete with a 1950s style diner booth, a VW Love Bus, a 1917 Model T Ford and much more!

Enjoy lunch on your own at the new Cracker Barrel Old Country Store that recently opened. This highway-iconic chain’s Victorville location is the only California location. In San Bernardino, we will visit the original site of McDonald’s (once owned by the McDonald brothers), which opened in 1948. Recently dramatized in the movie, “The Founder,” this was the site where Ray Kroc tried to sell Dick and Mac McDonald a MixMaster in 1954 and ended up buying their name. Now a Juan Pollo restaurant, the owner turned part of the building into a McDonald’s Museum that hosts a collection of pre-Ray Kroc McDonald’s items, dating back to the 1940s. Enjoy an included sweet treat at Logan’s Candies, where their family has been making signature candy canes, chocolates and ice cream by hand for almost 80 years.
